Lounge72 (<http://www.lounge72.com/>) invited us to contribute an artwork for their 2007 Design Calendar (<http://www.lounge72.com/>). This graphic visualizes communication in networks. Messages take different paths while passing various nodes on their way from senders to receivers, thus they create a unique pattern of communication. This is visually tracked with a custom made software, that was written in Processing (<http://www.processing.org/>) and is able to generate high resolution PDF graphics for print. Our piece is on in November.
